Sadler Law Indicates its Intention to Attend the Annual Meeting of the International Network of Boutique Law Firms in Paris

Houston – August 25, 2011 – Sadler Law, the Houston-based law firm dedicated to the legal concerns of energy companies, announces its intention to send six firm staff to the eighth annual international meeting and black tie dinner of the International Network of Boutique Law Firms (INBLF) in Paris, France.

As Sadler Law continues to grow into the nation’s leading oil and gas law firm, it is pleased to continue its participation with INBLF. As INBLF expands out to Paris for its first annual meeting abroad, Sadler law will continue to expand its coverage. Sadler Law now has on staff 65 lawyers licensed to practice law in 12, bringing endless years of experience. Sadler Law staff is licensed to practice law in the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Louisiana, Montana, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming.

“Sadler Law Firm’s attendance at the International Network of Boutique Law Firms (“INBLF”) Annual Meeting and Black-Tie Dinner will be invaluable. We intend to develop relationships with some of the world’s most well-respected law firms and attorneys throughout Central and South America, Europe, Australia and Africa. In 2009, we made a decision to build a multi-state practice. This decision enabled us to more than double in size during the worst economic times since the Great Depression. The decision to join the INBLF and to grow our international practice will enable us to keep growing and will allow us to assist our clients not only within the domestic borders, but around the world”, says Sadler Law attorney Greg Cox.
